Your Family, Your Process, Your Resolution.

We Can Help!

What is Mediation?

Mediation is a confidential, problem-solving process. You work together with the mediator to gather information, discuss options and create your own agreement and legal documents.

The lawyer mediator provides education and professional resources so you can make positive decisions about all of your family and financial issues.

The Family Mediation Center is dedicated to helping couples identify and build upon common ground by providing a cooperative, problem-solving process for divorce and other family issues.

Each of our trained mediators will specifically tailor their approach to your family's unique needs. Our mediators have legal, financial and child/family skills to help you find creative ways to reshape your family and finances.

Divorce Options

The family transition in separation or divorce can challenge you emotionally and financially. The first question to ask yourself is "What process is the best fit for you and your family?"

Self Representation

You make decisions and draft legal and financial documents on your own without information or professional support.

Mediation

A lawyer mediator provides education in a structured team process to guide the two of you through all necessary information and legal documents.

Collaborative Practice

Each of you is separately represented by a lawyer and you work with other professionals to assist you in reaching an out-of-court agreement.

Litigation

Each of you hires a lawyer to negotiate for you in positional bargaining with the potential of high conflict and a costly court battle.

Why Mediation?

Divorce is more than a legal problem. Too many families spend time and money in courtrooms fighting. At Family Mediation Center, we will help you build a healthy path by addressing your financial, emotional and legal concerns as you create the necessary legal documents and move forward.
